LO: Can I adapt the grammar and vocabulary used in my writing to suit the audience and purpose and enhance meaning?

SC: You will write a persuasive speech from the perspective of Lady Macbeth, including clear paragraphs and the FEARRR techniques.

X It is your destiny x freedom will be ours.

X If you won't do it, I will, he will die a harsh death.

Darling Macbeth, is thy love pure? Does my company make you glad? You are going to do just as I say - King Duncan, the ~~one~~ only pedant hindering us from the throne, shall die a tragic death, and you shall be the one to ~~meet~~^{hear} his last breaths.

Imagine all of the freedom, the power, the glory - you shan't ~~de~~ decline this opportunity, his incessant talking needs to end. You're a naïve fool sowly being corrupted. This is your incentive.

The ~~ph~~ prophecy, do you recall the prophecy, Destiny - you are heavily blessed with an array of leading skills. We shall work discreetly. You gullable fool, we will beguile him.

I if you decide not to, you will witness another side of me. I will stalk ~~tr~~ you a silhouette in the darkness. I shall leave you now.

don't focus completely on vocab
- make sure you are fully expanding ideas and sentences.
